Biographical / Historical

The Martha Baird Rockefeller Fund for Music was founded in 1957, as a private philanthropy, by Martha Baird Rockefeller with monies received from the estate of John D. Rockefeller Jr. Incorporated in 1962, the Fund's interest centered on young solo artists, who received support directly through individual grants or indirectly through contributions to performance organizations that offered advanced training and employment. Funds were also allocated to: aid symphony orchestras, opera companies, and other performing groups and organizations, including but not limited to the presenting of concerts to benefit local communities; to enable schools of music and other educational institutions to carry out programs and projects contributing to the training of students; to support festivals and other activities devoted to the advancement of musical knowledge and culture; and to establish or aid research in the field of musicology.

Until Mrs. Rockefeller's death in 1971, the Fund was supported by her contributions of $600,000 annually. Her will provided for an unrestricted bequest to the fund of $5,000,000, and the trustees elected to continue the program at the same level until funds were exhausted. The Fund was dissolved in 1982.
