Domestic Council, 1970-1976

Physical Description: 3.2 Cubic Feet

Scope and Contents note

This subseries consists of memos, background papers, activity reports, and policy reviews of the Domestic Council. The Domestic Council was formed in 1970 on the recommendation of the President's Advisory Council on Executive Organization. Developed as the domestic counterpart to the National Security Council, its major purpose was to create for the President a centralized, comprehensive policy-formulating group that would work closely with the relevant executive departments to analyze and develop policy initiatives on issues such as education, health care, welfare, drug abuse, veteran programs, civil rights, and natural resources.

Energy Independence Authority (EIA), 1974-1976

Physical Description: 2.5 Cubic Feet

Scope and Contents note

This subseries consists of correspondence and information on meetings regarding the proposed Energy Independence Authority (EIA). President Gerald Ford submitted legislation proposing the establishment of the EIA on October 10, 1975. The proposal from President Ford was to establish an independent government-owned corporation, managed by a five-member board of directors, with authority to invest a total of $100 billion over a 7-year period in energy projects that would help the United States achieve energy independence. The EIA was to support projects in nuclear energy, solar energy, geothermal energy, and synthetic fuel technology. The legislation was never passed by Congress.

Science Advisory Groups for the Office of Science and Technology Policy (OSTP), 1975-1976

Physical Description: 2 Cubic Feet

Arrangement note

This subseries is arranged chronologically.

Scope and Contents note

This subseries contains memos and information on meetings with the science advisory groups. Two science advisory groups were appointed by President Ford in November 1975. The first group, chaired by Dr. Simon Ramo, provided advice on the contributions of technology to economic strength. The other group, chaired by Dr. William Baker, provided advice on anticipated advances in science and technology. The groups' priorities were to set up a list of urgent scientific issues. The list included energy, food and nutrition, space, industrial productivity, health and safety regulations, and basic research.
