Biographical / Historical

Henry G. Kunkel (1916-1983) was an immunologist and clinical investigator who was one of the earliest practitioners in the field of clinical immunology. He spent the majority of his career at The Rockefeller University (formerly the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research), beginning there as an Assistant Professor in 1945. In the early part of his career, he focused on basic immunology, using myeloma proteins to decipher the chain structure of immunoglobulins and antibodies. This work allowed for the first mapping of immunoglobulin genes to their respective chromosomes and the classification of antibodies.

In the latter part of his career, Dr. Kunkel focused primarily on the clinical investigation end of immunology. This included making significant strides in the studies of diseases such as systemic lupus erythematosus, rheumatoid arthritis, and chronic liver disease, as well as lymphoproliferative diseases (production of excessive quantities of lymphocytes) and primary immunodeficiency disorders (where parts of the body's immune system are missing or not functioning properly). He was also an editor of the Journal of Experimental Medicine from 1960 until his death, and a co-founding editor of Advances in Immunology. Dr. Kunkel died on December 15, 1983.

September 9, 1916: Born in Brooklyn, New York to noted botanist Louis O. Kunkel (a member of the Rockefeller Institute) and horticulturist Joanna Kunkel. 1938-Graduated from Princeton University with a B.A. 1942-Graduated from Johns Hopkins University with an M.D. July 1942-March 1943-Intern at Bellevue Hospital March-August 1943-Assistant Resident at Bellevue Hospital August 1943-July 1946-Served in the Medical Corps of the U.S. Naval Research. Included active service in Italy. March 1945-December 1983-Appointed as a member of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research in 1945, he later became a full member in 1952. Concurrently, he was also promoted from Assistant Resident Physician at The Rockefeller University Hospital to Physician. July 1950-June 1951-Visiting Investigator, Biochemical Institute (Uppsala, Sweden) 1973-1983-Adjunct Professor of Medicine at Cornell University Medical School (New York, New York) 1975-Received the Albert Lasker Basic Medical Research Award for contributions to the field of immunology, in particular to the understanding of how harmful immunologic responses can cause injury and disease, through his work with rheumatoid arthritis and kidney disease. 1976-1983-Abby Rockefeller Mauze Professor at The Rockefeller University 1977-Received the Louisa Gross Horwitz Prize for Biology or Biochemistry. It was awarded for his work in extending the study of immunology by creating the groundwork for a classification of immunoglobulins, as well as his work with rheumatoid arthritis and lupus erythematosus. December 15, 1983-Died in New York.

Notes and Notebooks, 1949-1984

Arrangement

Series 3: Notes and Notebooks

Arranged alphabetically.

Scope and Contents

Contains bound notebooks and loose notes written by Dr. Kunkel and his laboratory staff at the Rockefeller University. Subjects include: hemoglobins, immunofluorescence, lymphocytes, and monoclonal antibodies. There are also a number of notebooks that are listed solely by numbers or which are untitled. Some files are closed because they contain files of a sensitive nature, primarily identifiable patient information.

Conditions Governing Access:

Conditions Governing Access

The collection is open for scholarly research with select materials restricted, as noted.

RAC is unable to provide access to obsolete media and original digital media. In addition separated media may not yet have undergone stabilization procedures. When feasible, a digital surrogate may be created via special order. All applicable charges will apply. See RAC Head of Archival Services or RAC Head of Digital Programs for details.
