Biographical / Historical

The Ford Foundation maintained an office in Kingston, Jamaica from 1967 to 1970. The Kingston office administered the Foundation's program for Jamaica and the Caribbean region.

By 1979, the Foundation had issued over $13 million in grants for the Caribbean. The majority of the Foundation's Caribbean grantmaking focused on Jamaica, but it also provided support to the Dominican Republic, Barbados, and Trinidad. After it closed its Kingston office in 1970, the Foundation transferred responsibility for its Caribbean program to its Mexico City, Mexico office. The Foundation reduced its grantmaking to the Caribbean in the 1970s (The Ford Foundation in the Caribbean discussion notes, 1979, Ford Foundation records, Catalogued Reports, Reports 13949-17726 (FA739F), Report 016709).
