Biographical / Historical

The Kunkel Society was established in memory of Henry George Kunkel, a professor at the Rockefeller University, whose contributions to the field of basic and clinical immunology are well known. He was perhaps best known for his pionerring and extensive work with immunoglobulins. Dr. Kunkel was the recipient of many awards and honors, including membership in the National Academy of Sciences, honorary degrees from the University of Uppsala and Harvard University, and recipient of the Lasker Award and the Gairdner Award. He also received the Kovalenko Medal from the National Academy of Sciences. The Society meets annually.
