Biographical / Historical

The Ford Foundation was chartered by Henry and Edsel Ford in 1936 "to receive and administer funds for scientific, educational and charitable purposes, all for the public welfare", and initially served the Ford family's charitable interests in the Detroit area. Following the deaths of Edsel Ford (1943) and Henry Ford (1947), the Foundation was propelled to the forefront of philanthropy as the largest American foundation in terms of both endowment and yearly expenditures, and with an international scope to its major program areas.

During the Foundation's first twenty years its major programs were in international economic development, primary and higher education, educational and public broadcasting, behavioral sciences, civil liberties, urban development, fine arts and the humanities. The Ford Foundation also partnered with the Rockefeller Foundation in supporting agricultural development in South America, Africa, and Southeast Asia. Since the 1970s, the Foundation has also pioneered programs in women's rights, energy policy, micro-financing in under-developed countries, establishing human rights groups, and improving international HIV/AIDS education.

Signature Letters from Individuals, 1949-1998

Scope and Contents

Most of the letters within this series were organized by the Ford Foundation into individual folders that describe the letter's author, addressee, date, extent, and point of origin on the front cover.

The last group of files in the series contains correspondence that was grouped with this series' signature letters but for the most part, was not organized in the same way as the other letters. Ford may have been in the process of preparing these letters to fit into its established system of arrangement.

Mills Committee, 1969

Scope and Contents

In the lead up to the passing of the 1969 Tax Act, the House Ways and Means Committee, chaired by Representative Wilbur Mills, requested that Ford Foundation President McGeorge Bundy appear before the committee. He was asked to explain what some saw as political bias in recent Ford Foundation grants. Among the controversial programs were grants to the Cleveland Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and the Southern Regional Council for voter registration activities, the travel and study awards to Robert Kennedy's staff following his assassination, and support for the Yale Law School's League for Environmental Law.

This series contains correspondence, press releases, and summaries related to 12 of the 19 controversial grants. Materials were originally in a binder but were removed and placed into folders for preservation purposes. The original order was retained.
