Biographical/Historical note

René Jules Dubos (1901-1982), microbiologist and environmentalist, was affiliated with the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, The Rockefeller University, for more than 50 years (1927-1942 and 1944-1982). During this tenure, Dubos made his most significant contribution to the field of antibiotics with the discovery of gramicidin in 1939. The development, identification, cultivation, and analysis of gramicidin encouraged further experimentation in the field of antibiotics.

René Dubos was born on February 20, 1901 in Saint Brice, France. From 1915 to 1919 he was a student at the College Chaptal in Paris and studied at the Institut National Agronomique from 1919-1921. Dubos received his Ph. D. from Rutgers University in 1927. He became a fellow at the RIMR in that same year and served as a professor from 1957 to 1971, becoming professor emeritus, 1971-1982.

Dubos' environmental activism began in the 1950s, when he urged the scientific community to accept social responsibility for the preservation of the environment. His maxim, "think globally, act locally," became the rallying cry for a generation of environmentalists.

Scope and Contents note

Materials include biographical information, bibliographies, awards and honors, conferences and lectures [agenda and programs], lab notebooks, interviews, clippings, audio and video tapes, photographs, manuscripts, typescripts, galley proofs, correspondence, reprints, reference notes, memorial materials [including letters of condolence to Mrs. Dubos], 80th Birthday Celebration and exhibition, and memorabilia.

Materials highlighting Dubos' work with antibiotics include the lab notebooks, awards and honors, and early reprints. His environmental interests are reflected in the plethora of conferences and lectures in which he participated, articles and books, awards and honors, and manuscripts.

The large number of photographs document Dubos' participation in these varied events, but many also depict aspects of his personal life, capturing Dubos at informal moments and with family members.
