Biographical/Historical note

Frank H. Field (1922-), Camille and Henry Dryfus Professor at the Rockefeller University, headed the laboratory of physical chemistry and mass spectrometry. Dr. Field was a leader in the field of mass spectrometry and the study of reactions, energetics, and kinetics of gaseous ions.

Starting in 1972, with funds from the National Institutes of Health, his laboratory provided mass spectrometry services to biomedical workers and institutions in the New York metropolitan area.

In his early work in the petroleum industry, Dr. Field helped advance the analysis of materials of potential economic significance through the use of low-voltage mass spectrometry and chemical ionization mass spectrometry.

Dr. Field received his B.S. (1943), M.S. (1944) and Ph. D. (1948) degrees in chemistry from Duke University. From 1952-1962, he worked with the Humble Oil and Refining Co. and the Esso Research and Development Company. During 1963-1964, Dr. Field was a John Guggenheim Fellow at the University of Leeds. He received a faculty appointment at the Rockefeller University in 1970 and became Dryfus professor in 1988. Dr. Frank H. Field retired in 1989.
