Biographical / Historical

The National Committee on United States – China Relations (NCUSCR) was established in 1966 as a nonprofit educational organization with a mission to encourage mutual understanding and dialogue between citizens of the United States and China. The National Committee came into being through the cooperative efforts of scholars and civic, religious, and business leaders who, at a time of mutual hostility between the two countries, sought to stimulate public discussion about China and the United States' relations with it by sponsoring conferences, seminars, publications, and other education and outreach programs. In 1972, the National Committee sponsored the Chinese table tennis team's historic U. S. visit. This round of "Ping Pong Diplomacy," which followed closely on Richard Nixon's visit to China in February 1972, helped pave the way for later exchanges and, eventually, for the normalization of relations with China in 1979. Building on these cultural exchanges, the National Committee came to be a primary organizer of professional and policy exchanges between the two countries (and including Hong Kong and Taiwan), in the areas of foreign affairs and international relations, economic development, governance and legal affairs, education, mass media, environmental and global issues, etc. As its role in exchanges became more prominent, the National Committee turned over some of its educational programs to the Asia Society in the late 1970s, but it continues its educational role through public education events and ongoing outreach. Funding for the National Committee comes from the United States government (especially the Department of State), corporations, and foundations, as well as from its individual membership.

China Conversations, 1968-1975

Scope and Contents

The China Conversations tape program was an early National Committee project. From 1967 to 1975 (or later), staff member Arlene Posner conducted interviews with China scholars, journalists, recent visitors, and other individuals knowledgeable on China or U. S. – China relations. The half-hour recordings cover topics ranging from family life, health, education, agriculture, medicine, and culture, to the political situation and China's foreign relations. The series contained at least 28 titles, which were available for loan to schools, radio stations, or other outlets, or were packaged and distributed by educational publishers.

Some of the recordings carry approximate dates, as some interviews were reissued. For several interviews there is both a "long" version and an abbreviated, "short" version of the recording.

Conversations from Wingspread, 1972-1975

Scope and Contents

Conversations from Wingspread was a series of half-hour audio conversations with scholars and specialists on various subjects, which in the case of the NCUSCR collection pertain specifically to China and U.S. – China relations.

Moderated by Dan Price, the programs often addressed topics that similarly formed the subject of conferences at the Johnson Foundation's Wingspread Conference Center, in Racine, WI.

The individual programs were numbered; the notes include the recording number (e.g., R-3) when it is known.
