Summary Information

Repository:	Rockefeller Archive Center
Creator - aut:	Gaither, H. Rowan (Horace Rowan), 1909-1961
Creator:	Ford Foundation
Title:	Ford Foundation records, Office of the President, Office Files of H. Rowan Gaither
ID:	FA621
Date [inclusive]:	1947-1958
Physical Description:	6.16 Cubic Feet
Language of the Material:	English .
Abstract:	The office files of H. Rowan Gaither cover the years 1947 to 1959, with the bulk of the records dating from 1951 to 1956. The arrangement of the records closely follows an outline that was found enclosed with the files. Presumably the outline described the order in which the files were arranged by Gaither's secretary, Ann Eggars. (Archives was unable to locate this outline as of May 1996.) The files consist mainly of correspondence, reports and notes. Records maintained by Gaither pertaining to the 1949 Study Committee, aka the Gaither Committee, were transferred to the record series for the Study Committee. Some material from the Fund for Adult Education (FAE) folders in series II, boxes 2 and 3, was copied and placed in the F AE grant files, P A51 0-0026 and P A530-0206. Speeches, reports and publications were transferred to their respective collections in the Archives. Transfers are noted on cross-reference sheets in Gaither's records. Appendices to this register list Gaither's speeches and reports and other staff and consultant reports that were transferred to the Ford Foundation Archives' Speech Collection and Unpublished Reports Collection.

Biographical / Historical

H. Rowan Gaither, Ford Foundation President from March 1953 to October 1956, also held the following positions in the Foundation:

- 1948-1950 Director, The Study Committee
- 1951 Associate Director
- 1953-1956 President
- 1953-1960 Trustee
- 1956-1958 Chairman, Board of Trustees

H. Rowan Gaither was born on November 23, 1909. He received his A.B. and LL.B. degrees from the University of California, in 1929 and 1933 respectively. He was admitted to the California bar in 1933.

Before coming to the Ford Foundation, Gaither followed careers in law, banking, and public service. From 1933 to 1936, Gaither served as Special Assistant to the General Counsel of the Farm Credit Administration in Washington.

In 1936 he returned to California where he became partner in the San Francisco law firm of Cooley, Crowley and Supple, later Cooley, Crowley and Gaither. From 1942 to 1945 Gaither, on leave from his law firm, served as Assistant Director of the Radiation Laboratory at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was awarded the Presidential Certificate of Merit for his service in this organization.

In 1948, Gaither helped to organize the Rand Corporation, and was appointed Chairman of the Board. In that same year, he was asked by the trustees of the Ford Foundation "to organize and direct a planning study of policy and program for the Foundation." (Report of the Study... 1949, p. 9) Gaither served as Chairman of the Study Committee and Director of the staff of the Committee.

In March 1953, Gaither was appointed President of the Ford Foundation. He served in this position until his resignation on October 1, 1956. On April 22, 1956, Gaither had been named Chairman of the Board of Trustees, a post he held until 1958. Gaither continued to serve as a Ford Foundation trustee until 1960.

During the last year of his life, Gaither was intermittently active in the venture-capital field with the firm of Draper, Gaither and Anderson.

He died on April 6, 1961.

Scope and Contents

The office files of H. Rowan Gaither consist of 5 1/2 linear feet (15 archives boxes) of correspondence, notes and reports. They reflect the early years of the Ford Foundation after its expansion in 1949 from a local Michigan charity to a national and international philanthropic organization. In 1950, the Report of the Study for the Ford Foundation on Policy and Program was issued by the Study Committee, which was chaired by Gaither.

This report proposed five program areas to be the focal points of the Ford Foundation's operations. In 1950, they were adopted by the Foundation Trustees. They were: Area I: The Establishment of Peace; Area II: The Strengthening of Democracy; Area III: The Strengthening of the Economy; Area IV: Education in a Democratic Society; and Area V: Individual Behavior and Human Relations. The Gaither office files focus on the implementation of these five program areas. The records demonstrate the influence of, but do not contain, the records of the Study Committee which constitute a separate record sense.

Program Area One - The Establishment of Peace - was intended to foster international understanding, maintain world peace, and combat communist threats to the western world, by strengthening politically and economically the position of the free world, particularly the uncommitted developing countries. The projects were designed to work toward solutions to these problems and fell under the following categories: Overseas Development, Overseas Training and Research, International Affairs, and the Exchange of Persons. Program Area One records contain material relating to the planning and development of these subdivisions. They are particularly valuable in demonstrating the importance that the Foundation placed on gaining greater knowledge of the Soviet Union. The records also include letters from Douglas Ensminger, the first Ford Foundation representative in India. His correspondence concerns the Foundation's Area One developmental activities in India, which were intended to counterbalance similar assistance from the Soviet Union.

Program Area Two - The Strengthening of Democracy - was designed to safeguard individual civil liberties in a democratic society, and to strengthen the institutions and democratic processes themselves. Program Area Two records include material on the Fund for Adult Education, the Fund for the Republic, and the TV-Radio Workshop.

Program Area Three - The Strengthening of the Economy - was aimed at achieving a productive domestic and world economy in the face of the United States' military and economic commitments abroad and at home. Program Area Three records include material on Resources for the Future.

Program Area Four - Education in a Democratic Society - considered education to be the most important element for the improvement of human welfare and the guarantee of democracy. Program Area Four records include material on the Fund for the Advancement of Education and Intercultural Publications.

Program Area Five - Individual Behavior and Human Relations - addressed the need for knowledge of human behavior and for its application on all program areas of the Foundation. Program Area Five records include material on a controversial grant to the University of Chicago Law School. One purpose of the project was to "study the actual operation of the jury system". In 1954, as part of the research, the deliberations of a jury in Wichita, Kansas were recorded without the jurors' knowledge. Public outrage resulted and eventually the case was investigated by the United States Senate Sub-Committee on Internal Security. The Ford Foundation received much criticism for having funded the project. This occurrence raised basic policy questions regarding the Foundation's relationship to its grantees, and the limits of Foundation accountability to, and responsibility for, grantee action. The incident and the questions it raised are well documented in the Area Five series.

The Ford Foundation itself came under Congressional investigation during the 1950s. In the wake of the Cox Committee (House Select Committee to Investigate Tax-Exempt Foundations and Comparable Organizations) and Reece Committee (House Special Committee to Investigate Tax-Exempt Foundations) hearings, the Foundation's Board and officers recognized the need to educate the public about the benefits of organized philanthropy and commissioned a study on this subject. The background material for the study is contained in the Program Area Two series. Gaither's files on the Cox and Reece Committees are located in Series VI, Administration, sub series on Public Relations (boxes 11 and 12).

Series VI, Administration, is comprised of five subseries: Personnel; Grant Policies and Procedures; Organization and Administration; Financial and Legal; and Public Relations. The records in this series, especially the Organization and Administration subseries, provide a good source for researchers investigating such topics as institution building and organization and management. This sub series draws on and applies the guidelines set forth by the Study Committee's report. Many reports from this sub series have been transferred to the Archives' Reports Collection. The remaining material complements the reports. The Administration series also contains a file on the financial relationship between the Ford Foundation and the Ford Motor Company during the years 1947 to 1956.

As a whole, Gaither's office files document the Foundation's unique role in the history of philanthropy, conveying the sense of limitless possibility that permeated the Foundation in its early years. They reflect the Foundation's resolve to act as an institution dedicated to promoting the public well-being and contributing to the solution of problems both national and international in scope, completely separate from the United States government.

Arrangement

The office files of H. Rowan Gaither, Office of the President, are divided into eight subject series. Although Gaither did not become President until 1953, the records document his Foundation activities from 1950 to 1959, with the bulk of the records from 1951 to 1956, and include some earlier material, which he inherited from his predecessor, Paul Hoffman. The series are:

- I. Area One: The Establishment of Peace
- II. Area Two: The Strengthening of Democracy
- III. Area Three: The Strengthening of the Economy

IV. Area Four: Education in a Democratic Society

V. Area Five: Individual Behavior and Human Relations

VI. Administration

VII. Non-Program Suggestions

VIII. Ford Motor Company Reports

Series I: Area One files (1951-1956). Arranged alphabetically by subject, then chronologically within each subject.

Series II: Area Two files (1949-1956). Four subseries, as follows:
