Biographical / Historical

In 1956 Roger C. Elliot was appointed Assistant Business Manager to work with Waldo Flinn and Douglas Whitaker who had supervisory responsibility for the Office of the Business Manager. In further reorganization Waldo Flinn was named Director of the Budget with Roger C. Elliot as Assistant Director. When Mr. Flinn retired in 1965, and Joseph R. Dilworth, Treasurer, supervised the Office of the Budget and Special Services, Roger Elliot served as Assistant Comptroller.

In 1970/1971 a clear-cut division between financial management of the University and the management of financial properties was re-established. The various positions of Comptrollers were abolished and Roger Elliot became Director of Budgets and Special Services. In 1972 the post of Director of the Budget and Special Services was dropped and budgetary functions were transferred to the Office of Controller.

Roger Elliot as Director of Administrative Services supervised the property management of the University and the administration of faculty benefit plans and all forms of general insurance. Roger Elliot retired as of July 1, 1974 and the post of Director of Administrative Services was discontinued as a separate entity.
