Biographical / Historical

Lloyd Garrison was Director of the Office of Communications at the Ford Foundation from 1991 to 1995. In May 1995, he left the Office of Communications to research, write, and edit an authorized history, in book or video form, of the Ford Foundation from 1980-1995. The project had a deadline of May 1996 most likely to coincide with the retirement of Ford Foundation president Franklin Thomas. Garrison left the Foundation after the project ended in 1996. It appears the project never moved beyond a collection of drafts.
