Biographical / Historical

Virginia Davis Floyd is a physician whose career has included positions in public health, philanthropy, and higher education. From 1997 to 2002, she was Director of the Ford Foundation's Asset Building and Community Development Program (ASSETS), Human Development and Reproductive Health (HDRH) unit.

Prior to joining the Ford Foundation, Floyd had a series of public and family health positions. In 1979, she was a medical officer for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and was based in Cameroon. She then joined the National Health Services Corps in Palmetto, Georgia before going to Morehouse College to establish a family medicine residency program. From 1984 to 1997, she served as director of family health at the Georgia Department of Human Resources.

After leaving the Ford Foundation, Floyd became a visiting scholar at Spelman College in 2003. She joined the faculty of Morehouse College in 2006.

Floyd completed her undergraduate education at Spelman College and spent her final year of college studying at Sophia University in Tokyo, Japan. She earned her Doctor of Medicine from Howard University College of Medicine in 1976 and did a residency program at Emory University Hospital. In 1987, she earned a Master's Degree in public health from Emory.
